RECOMMENDATION

BACKGROUND

One of the most popular elements at the California State Capitol Museum is the Hall of Counties, where a series of window box displays showcase California's 58 counties to over three million visitors annually. The San Luis Obispo display has not been refreshed since the 1980's, and Leadership SLO Class XXI committed to updating this highly visible and educational piece of public art.

The Leadership SLO Class XXI along with Supervisor Frank Mecham and Stacie Jacob, Executive Director of VisitSLO chose photographers Bryn Forbes and Craig Christakos to design, create, and install the display.

Today, these talented artists will present the window box display and Leadership SLO Class XXI will begin the marketing effort and set a date for the installation, ribbon cutting and Class project celebration.
